

KING GEORGE
LOSES FIGHTAnd the House of Lords
Faces Liberals' Ultimatum

MAY BE GENERAL ELECTION

Efforts to Secure a Compromise Failed.
The House of Lords May Avert the Crisis by Limiting Their Own Powers.

London, Nov. 17.—King George's personal effort to avert the English crisis failed to-day and the house of lords faces the liberals' ultimatum that unless it consents to pass the bill limiting the lords' veto power by November 28, the liberals will force a general election. The king deems the crisis a menace to the governmental foundation of England. Conferences were held yesterday, in which it was hoped that a compromise might be effected, but Premier Asquith refused. It is possible that the house of lords will avert the crisis voluntarily by limiting their powers.

King George arrived in London from Sandringham yesterday and received Premier Asquith soon after reaching the palace. The extreme liberal papers hint that King George has taken sides with the house of lords. The Daily News says that the resignation of the cabinet would mean that a monarchial revolution had been added to the revolution of the peers.

King George summoned the privy council to meet, presumably for the purpose of obtaining the advice of the privy councillors regarding his course in the matter of giving Premier Asquith guarantees to increase the number of peers sufficient to support the government in its policy of reforming the house of lords. This summons brought together the leaders of both parties.

THE ENGINE ON THE FARM.

Every Minute Saved by It Means Dollars in the Pocket.

Last year, on a farm of seven hundred and sixty acres, I kept regularly three work horses, hiring extra horses when haying and threshing. This year, with a thousand acres to farm, I expect to keep only four horses all the year and expect to need fewer extra horses during the rush season, using the engine more at this time than before.

This reduction in the number of men and horses required on the farm is not the only valuable feature in an engine. In almost the entire United States and all over Canada there are certain months of the year when little or no work is done in the fields. The horses stand idle in the barn, eating regularly three times a day. The only return they own gives from the feed they eat is the manure they make. In fact, the horse nowhere near pays for his keep during these months. The same feed given to cattle, sheep or hogs would give just as great value in manure and would also give an income in the form of milk, wool and flesh. The engine has consumed nothing and so costs nothing during these months.

The heaviest, hardest and most important work of the year comes in the spring. Immediately following a spell of illness. The horses have not been doing enough to keep them in good working condition. They cannot be rushed much when the weather permits one to work. The engine is in just as good condition at the end of the idle spell as it was at the beginning. And here is where I get one of the greatest benefits from my engine. When the seeding season does finally get good, I divide my men into two shifts, and we work the engine day and night. We get our small grain all in within a few days when the conditions are the best, and my chances are that much better for a uniformly good crop. It looks mighty good to me to see that old engine pounding away from seven in the morning until six at night and then from seven at night until six in the morning, when every minute saved means dollars in the pocket.—From "Making the Farm a Factory," in December Technical World Magazine.

ington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—At the request of Eugene Birmingham, chief of police of Bridgeport, Ct., the local police yesterday arrested Sherman K. He was accompanied by a young woman, who gave her name as Mrs. Pearl Dayton. The police are also holding the woman, though they believe she had nothing to do with the alleged theft. She surrendered to the police $50 which she said Hill had given to her on the way to this city.

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 17.—Sherman K. Hill, who was arrested yesterday in Washington for the Bridgeport, (Ct.) police, is the son of William K. Hill, who was for years manager of the hotel Rockingham and hotel Wentworth, the latter the hotel at which the Japanese-Russian peace envoys were registered. He is now retired.

The son left home some years ago, and according to members of the family he held positions as hotel clerk in Boston, New York and elsewhere. Early this year the family received word from the young man that he had married and was going West. They had not heard from him since.

Evening.

Boston, Nov. 17.—Mother Earth's shadow flitting across the face of the moon in the moon, darkening its features as with a frown, was watched by thousands of greater Bostonians last night under favorable conditions.

The sky was perfectly clear until the eclipse became total. For some minutes after that dense black clouds completely obscured the moon and its bedimmed light, although later they cleared and the passing of the shadow could be followed easily.

BIG STEAMERS
WERE LOCKEDLorraine Drove Huge Hole in Frederick Wilhelm

IN NORTH RIVER TODAY

Both of the Vessels, Which Had Started for Europe, Were Compelled to Put Back to Their Piers, Badly Damaged.

New York, Nov. 17.—Two ocean steamers were in collision in the North river to-day and both were so badly damaged that they had to put back to their piers for repairs. They were the liner Prinz Frederick Wilhelm of the North-German-Lloyd line, and the Lorraine of the French line. Both had started out on their trips to Europe. The tide in the river was very strong, and it caused the Lorraine to ram the Wilhelm, the bow of the former making a huge hole in the stern of the North-German-Lloyd steamer, while the bow of the ramming steamer was also badly damaged. Both of the vessels were able to return to their piers.

HELD FAST IN HAY SPOUT.

John Corlies Had Fallen After Sustaining a Stroke of Apoplexy.

Chelsea, Nov. 7.—About five o'clock Tuesday afternoon Mrs. E. D. Barnes' attention was called to an unusual noise as she had occasion to step to a door. She called the attention of Eugene Denmore to the matter, and he summoned A. D. Hancock and C. H. Corlies, who commenced an investigation. They soon discovered that the noise was coming from the barn in the rear of the Corlies store, where John Corlies, the veteran mail carrier on route No. 1, kept his horses. Entering the barn and going to the hay loft, they found Mr. Corlies had fallen into the hay spout in one of the mangers and was unable to extricate himself and was unconscious. He was taken immediately to his room at the hotel, and his physician was called. It was found that he had suffered a stroke of apoplexy and that his condition was very critical. He had returned from his daily trip over his route about half an hour before he was found in the manger, and it seems probable that he went up to the hay loft after putting up his horse, to feed the animals, when he was stricken. When found he had his fur coat on. Up to this time he has not regained his full senses. He is being cared for by his son, Clarence H. Corlies, and Wallace Sanborn.

ton Merchant.

Burlington, Nov. 17.—A boy, thought to be not more than 18 years of age, is suspected of stealing $80 from the store of J. J. White yesterday afternoon in a clever manner.

The boy, who was neatly dressed in a gray suit and who wore a checked cap, entered the store and asked if he might use the telephone, which is on the desk. He received permission and called for "information." While the boy was telephoning, Mr. White was called away to wait on a customer and left his desk open and incidentally one of the small drawers, which had in it a roll of $80 in bills of various denominations. A few minutes later the proprietor turned to find the money gone but by that time the youth had made his escape after courteously thanking Mr. White and the clerk for the use of the phone.

STATE BOARD OF TRADE
MAY BE ORGANIZED

Enthusiastic Meeting of Vermont Men
Was Held at Montpelier Last Night to Talk the Matter
Over.

The first steps toward forming a Vermont state board of trade were taken at a large public meeting held last night in the House of Representatives' hall at Montpelier. After the matter had been thoroughly discussed it was moved that an executive committee of five be appointed by Governor Head, chairman of the meeting, to prepare details of an organization to report at a meeting to be called by the chairman, and the motion prevailed.

Many prominent men were present, including ex-Governor G. H. Prouty, who is one of the enthusiastic backers of the movement and who called the gathering to order. After Governor Head had been elected temporary chairman and Lynn M. Hays of Burlington, temporary secretary, ex-Gov. Prouty was called upon to explain the purpose of the state board of trade. He said that the purpose was to exploit the advantages of the state, advertise them to the people out of the state, bring in new enterprises and develop water power and other resources. Gov. Prouty said that in traveling about the country, he had learned that Vermont was not known as well as it ought to be known. He also said that he had received sixty letters from substantial men, all of whom favored the project. In closing he declared there would be no politics or religion in the movement, simply the betterment of the state for a purpose.

Fred E. Gleason, secretary of the Montpelier board of trade, spoke in favor of the state board of trade, stating that no one who was interested in the development of the state would oppose such a move. Maxwell Evans, of the Windsor and New York thought the idea would not avail unless the organization were made practical and he thought the advantages of the towns should be set forth as locations for industries. The railroads will co-operate in summer travel, and he knew the Boston & Maine is interested in the development of that section of the state, through which the project of the state board of trade was being pushed.

Gov. Head remarked that he had been personally informed that President Meloy of the Boston & Maine was thoroughly interested in the development of Vermont and that it was his purpose to soon visit the state with that idea in view.

J. W. Hanley, general passenger agent of the Central Vermont railroad, was on his feet next, and he declared his railroad has spent thousands of dollars every year to advertise the attractions of Vermont and that good work was done. What Vermont needs, he said, are some good hotels to accommodate the increasing business. Last year over 150 farmers entertained summer boarders at prices ranging from $7 to $10 per week; and besides that the hotels and camps did a large business.

Among others who expressed themselves in favor of the project of the state board of trade were A. M. Fletcher of Cavendish, L. M. Hays, Mason S. Stone, Lieut-Gov. Slack, H. B. Barden, senator from Rutland county, F. M. Curry and George L. Blanchard of Montpelier, R. W. McCuen of Vergennes and John W. Redmond of Newport. The discussion was followed by the action above outlined, and the meeting then adjourned, subject to recall by the chairman.

A CENTURY OLD.

Mrs. Betsy Foster of Sutton Still In Good Health.

Sutton, Nov. 17.—The 100th birthday of Mrs. Betsy Foster, was observed here yesterday at the home of her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Laclair.

She was born in Johnson, Nov. 16, 1810, the daughter of Benjamin and Olive Emerson. About the year 1826, she married Mr. Stacy, and of them were born two children, neither of whom is now living. Mr. Stacy also died and after his death, she married Haskell C. Foster, and to them were born four children, three daughters and one son, all of whom are living.

Mrs. Foster went to the war in 1861, where he was taken prisoner and starved to death in Andersonville prison. Mrs. Foster never married again and brought her family up as best she could.

When her husband enlisted she was living in Eden, and she remained there until 1879, when she moved to Albany, Vt., with her son-in-law, Mr. Laclair. They lived there three years, moving from there to Sheffield, and from there to this place.

Her health has always been and still is very good, having employed a doctor very little during her lifetime. She wears glasses very little and is still able to get around the house very well without assistance.

FINED FOR PENSION FRAUD.

Goshen Woman Must Pay $100—Her Daughter Involved.

Rutland, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Rosie Aiken of Goshen, was fined $100 by Judge James L. Martin in United States court yesterday afternoon after pleading guilty to obtaining a pension fraudulently. Her daughter, Miss Flora A. White of Boston, was indicted in that city Tuesday on an arrestment from this district and she will be brought to Rutland for her fine but probably not during this term of court. The government in this case claimed that Mrs. Aiken swore falsely concerning the date of her marriage to a soldier and in this manner obtained pension money. Her attorney, E. H. O'Brien, stated that her daughter was more to blame and thus the fine was made light.

Mrs. Aiken was married in 1897, but in order to get in under the law, she swore she was married in January, 1890, and she also changed her marriage license to read in this manner: "substituting the figures." It is claimed the daughter was a witness and that she also swore falsely to affidavits.

LAID BLAME
ON DEAD MANLynn Bandit Denied Killing
Landregan and Carroll

THE CASE IS ABOUT ENDED

It Is Expected That the Case Will Go to the Jury This Afternoon and That a Verdict Will Be Reached
To-night.

Salem, Mass., Nov. 17.—This was the final day of the trial of the Lynn bandit who is alleged to have murdered Thomas Landregan and policeman James H. Carroll, after having robbed Landregan of $4,000 last June. It is expected that the case will go to the jury this afternoon. Andre Ipsen, one of the two Russians accused, completed his testimony, denying the murder. It is expected that Wassili Ivanowski, the other, will be called. There will probably be a verdict to-night.

Ipsen in his testimony denied that he fired the shots which killed Landregan and Carroll, declaring that these shots were fired by "Joe," the third member of the party, who was killed. He said that he was born in Russia, was 18 years of age, and came to America in 1909. Soon after in New York he met "Joe" and some time later became acquainted with Wassili Ivanowski, the other member of the trio. They came to Boston in search of work, he said, and "Joe" paid the expenses.

On the morning of the shooting, the witness said, the three of them were in Lynn in search of work. He declared he knew nothing of any plan of robbery and that his first intimation that "Joe" had such a thing in mind was when he heard shots fired. Then he drew his own gun and fired several shots "to scare people away so that he might escape." The witness then told of the fight, of the division of the money and finally of his capture.

WOMAN CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

Mrs. Frank C. Averill Shot Her Husband in St. Albans on October 20 Last.

She Claimed It Was an Accident.

St. Albans, Nov. 17.—Guilty of manslaughter was the verdict which was returned against Mrs. Frank C. Averill in Franklin county court late yesterday for shooting her husband as he lay in the Tullar district here on the night of October 20. Averill died on the 23d, and Mrs. Averill was arrested that day, indicted by a special grand jury and in two weeks placed on trial. The shot passed through a bedroom door, hitting Averill in the upper part of the body. The defense tried to show that it was an accident and that Mrs. Averill was hitting the door with the muzzle of the gun to make her husband open the door.

The jury arrived at a verdict at 4:15 o'clock, about four hours after the case had been given into its hands. Mrs. Averill was brought into the courtroom to hear the verdict. When the word manslaughter was pronounced, it seemed to have no effect on the woman, but afterwards, when Sheriff Holmes was leading her out of the court, the woman broke into tears and sobbing violently, cried: "My baby, my baby, my baby." There were only a few people in the courtroom at the time, as it had not been expected that a verdict would be reached so soon.

Mrs. Averill's testimony on the stand differed materially from her statements on the night of the shooting. Then she stated that the shooting occurred in a field near the house. It was testified that Mrs. Averill placed the exploded cartridge in the kitchen stove, and that she tried to destroy all evidence of the shooting, but this she denied.

A witness for the state testified that, in his opinion, such a gun could not be discharged unless the person had a finger on the trigger.

Mrs. Averill became acquainted with Mr. Averill in Cambridge, Mass. They were married in Worcester. Averill was a travelling man.

Matter Yesterday.

At the afternoon meeting of the board of trustees of Goddard seminary yesterday, Principal O. K. Hollister presented his resignation as secretary of the board. The resignation was accepted and Don V. Camp of South Barre, a member of the board, was elected secretary. The meeting continued throughout the afternoon and many matters in connection with the school were discussed. One important subject discussed was that of erecting a new dormitory on the seminary grounds in the near future. It is probable that a part of it will be reserved for a science hall.

A majority of the trustees, it is said, are of the opinion that all of the teachers and the principal of the school should reside in the school buildings, and this subject was discussed with a view to having it enforced with the opening of the next school year. The meeting was adjourned late in the afternoon and the trustees left for their homes. There were 22 members of the board present, and Hon. Charles H. Darling of Burlington, president of the board, presided over the meeting.

The Olivers claim that Hutchinson stole the watch out of her trunk yesterday morning. Hutchinson had been stopping at the Olivers' house for the past few days. He is employed by the street department in this city. After his arrest Hutchinson told the officers that he had pawned the watch for 50 cents at a house in North Barre, and this morning officer Dineen went to the house and got the watch. ON TRUSTEE PROCESS BILL

Weights and Measures Bill Runs Against a Snag—Senate Gets Communication From Gov.

A move was made in the House this morning to break the deadlock with the Senate on the trustee process measure when Mr. Fletcher of Cavendish moved that the House insist on its proposal of amendment to the Cushman (Senate) bill and ask for a conference committee. The motion was adopted by the House without debate, and later Speaker Howe announced the committees on the part of the House as follows: M. Fletcher of Cavendish, Mr. Webster of Swanton and Mr. Cory of Montpelier.

When the weights and measures bill came up on its passage, Mr. Pittbridge of Leicester wanted to have it ordered to lie and be made a special order for
